Chileserve is an integrated hosting solutions provider. Our ambition: To be the one stop provider for all your company's or organization's electronic needs.

Because we know what a nightmare having to create a new website for your organization or to upgrade an existing one can be, we offer to take the technical issues of your hands. You can concentrate on what you do best and we deliver a fast and efficient solution.

Because static contents sites cannot satisfy the needs of modern publishing our solutions are based on Joomla! A CMS, Content Management System that caters for collaborative publishing by non technical authors and much more. See the rest of this article to learn more.

We can help you to define your needs and exploit the the opportunities offered by the internet. From a simple corporate presence to a web shop, to a portal our solutions are scalable and can be integrated with your company network.

We will also work with you to create an image that suits your line of business and clients.

Because every organization is different we also offer custom software solutions.
